An extraordinary project in nature. Here the latest Solid Sate cooling technology has been used and it finds application in various industries directly. The core technology in this project is "A Semi conductor Heat Pump" which is made with special doping materials and architecture. A highly conditioned power input maintains the unit stability factor, which is also related with the quantum of radiation pattern and output drive.

Implementation of above project can be done by use of Semiconductor Heat pump, Metal Film registers, Tantulum Capacitors etc. The above prototype can be used to develop Mini Refrigerator, Medical Therapy device, a mobile air conditioner etc.

4 Digital 31/2 Digit Universal Digital controllers indicators

This projects based on Universal Digital controllers indicators system. This prototype may be used for i) Over loading indication, ii) Auto light shut down facility, ii) Auto polarity indication, iii) Extension of scaling etc. and for measurement of i) Voltage ii) Current iii) Resistance & iv) Semiconductors.

5 Wireless RF communication

This project is based on wireless communication using Radio Frequency in permitted range of operation with out interfering outside communications.

6 Sequential timer

These are based on industrial controller system. The reliability factor is directly dependent on the Time Based reference of the circuit either in inverted or non-inverted form. Now, this time reference is directly proportional to the functional impulse of the reference voltage. This can be measured by detecting capacitance changing or by the change of resistivity. In the above project Dual mode time control semiconductor chip, ideal CMOS voltage reference chip, discrete power drivers both solid state and electromechanical type will be used.

7 Wi-Fi data communication

This project is based on high speed reliable digital data communication using state of the art System-On-Chip technology. Practical demonstration will be shown for carrier communication and data communication along with carrier.

The other modules i.e. Civil Auto CAD and Strength of material were within the scope of the training. The data generated from surveying conducted, taken from total station were plotted using AutoCAD. Profile of road level, cross section, alignment was generated. Testing of TMT bars, bricks, cement and concrete blocks were demonstrated in detail. Students were exposed advanced method of surveying for real life civil engineering projects thereby will be highly helpful for increasing their employability. The students also visited Entrepreneurship and Development Cell (EDC) present at NSIC which also will be useful before being absorbed in industry. A large number of students attended the said training.
